Projects

- Detection of Air Pollution in Vehicles using Embedded System.

   The proposed system is used to design an embedded system for detecting air pollution in vehicles. In worldwide, air pollution is one of the major problems. To overcome this, this project is used for detecting the pollution within the air. This project uses an LPG sensor and a carbon monoxide sensor.

   The arrangement of this CO sensor can be done close to the outlet of the emission in the vehicle whereas the LPG sensor is connected close to the pipeline to notice any outflows. Once the emission is above the threshold value, then the buzzer gives an alert to the user.
