PROJECT

GSM based home appliances

GSM based control system” implements the emerging applications of the GSM technology. Using GSM networks, a control system has been proposed that will act as an embedded system which can monitor and control appliances and other devices locally using built-in input and output peripherals. Remotely the system allows the user to effectively monitor and control the house/ office appliances and equipment’s via the mobile phone set by sending commands in the form of SMS messages and receiving the appliances status
